LAW REGULATIONS CONCERNING NATURAL ENVIRONMENT IN POLAND

Poland reshaped its environmental policy considerably during a time of radical change in the national system and also before becoming the member of EU. The need to protect the natural environment has been listed in the Constitution of our country. One of the articles requires that „every citizen should take care of the environment and makes him/her responsible for any damage caused to it”.

Besides, there are many law acts concerning nature conservation.(the latest ones from 1991 and 2004).

WHO IS RESPONSIBLE FOR NATURE CONSERVATION IN POLAND?

• The Ministry of Environmental Protection and Natural Resources and Forestry - established in 1985,

There are also about 1000 organizations involved in environmental protection, for example:

- Foundation called "Our Earth", which coordinates the Clean up the World movement,
- the Social Ecological Institute,
- the Foundation for the Support of Ecological Initiatives,
- the Citizens' Ecological Movement).
- the Polish Ecological Club,
- the Institute for Eco-development,
- the National Foundation for Environmental Protection,
- the Bureau for Servicing Ecological Movement
- Ligue of Nature Protection - The oldest national organization (Liga Ochrony Przyrody)-founded in 1928

FORMS OF NATURE PROTECTION IN POLAND

Protected areas of Poland include the following categories, as defined by the Act on Protection of Nature 2004:

- 23 National Parks
 - 121 Landscape Parks
 - Over 1400 nature reserves
 - 450 protected landscape areas
 - About 500 Natura 2000 sites, (ecological network protected areas in the territory of the European Union)
 - Geological "documentary sites"
 - Over 6,000 "ecological sites"
 - "Nature and landscape complexes"
 - About 33,000 natural monuments (mainly trees, also some caves)
- Poland also has:
- 8 UNESCO-designated biosphere reserves: the Slowinski, Bialowieza, Kampinos, Babia Gora, Karkonosze, Tatra, Bieszczady, and Polesie parks
 - 13 UNESCO-designated World Heritage Sites
